Free “Choosing a Business Entity” Workshop for Entrepreneurs

SPOKANE – Do you have questions about what is the best legal structure for your business? Could your company benefit by changing your current business entity designation? Get answers at a free “Choosing a Business Entity” workshop sponsored by the IRS and held at the U.S. Small Business Administration’s Business Information Center (BIC) in Spokane.

This free workshop will be held on Tuesday, June 15th, 2004 from 8:30 am – 12:00 pm at the BIC, 801 West Riverside Avenue, Suite 240 of the Spokane Regional Business Center. Preregister at the BIC by calling 509-353-2800.

The Business Entity workshop is designed to compare the pros and cons of the different business entity types including sole proprietorships, partnerships, limited liability companies, and corporations. Understanding the restrictions, requirements and flexibilities of the different entities will enable entrepreneurs to make a more informed decision about what structure to select when they start a business or to switch from one entity to another as their business grows.

This free workshop is recommended for business owners who are considering a business entity/legal structure change and want more information. It is also valuable to prospective entrepreneurs on the verge of starting a business. The presenter is Rebecca Jensen, a Certified Public Accountant with The Accounting Source.

Call the BIC at 509-353-2800 to preregister for this workshop. Space is limited.
