

2017 LGBT Business Advocate

Suzanne Baugh founded Q&A Events in 1999 and was immediately engaged in the Atlanta LGBT Community. In early 2006, Suzanne became involved with the Atlanta Gay & Lesbian Chamber of Commerce and in 2007 joined as a volunteer on the Events Planning Committee. In addition to the AGLCC, Suzanne has worked with and volunteered for other prominent LGBT organizations in Atlanta such as Atlanta Pride and The Health Initiative.

Her business, Q&A Events, has helped the AGLCC with the planning and execution of events such as their Annual Awards Dinner, as well as their Business Expos. In 2012, Suzanne joined the board of directors of the AGLCC as Vice President with the intent of helping to refocus & revitalize the organization. Membership, corporate partners and education were all platforms that were important to Suzanne's involvement in the organization.

In 2013 Suzanne became the President of the AGLCC. During her term, she worked on the development of a new member management system that allowed the organization to more easily and effectively communicate with AGLCC members and corporate partners. This migration played a significant role in the growth of the AGLCC membership base and corporate partnerships.

Q&A Events has been a certified LGBT Business Enterprise since 2008 and Suzanne has worked tirelessly to help educate other small businesses on the advantages of becoming a certified LGBTBE.

Suzanne is a consummate advocate for the LGBT community and has won numerous awards and honors for her efforts to advance LGBT businesses.
