

2017 Women Business Champion

Lisa Winton and her husband George found their company, Winton Machine Co. in their basement in 1987. Through hard work and their passion for providing the best product possible for the customer, they grew the company out of the basement into a 13,000 square foot facility.

Lisa is a consummate advocate for volunteering and giving back to the community. She is an active supporter of the local STEM programs as well as serving on boards of several organizations that include: partnership against domestic violence, economic development, Public Arts Commission and the Junior League women's leadership training program. Lisa and George not only volunteer time and donate money; they also encourage their employees to get involved in the community as well.

Lisa's drive to improve her community has not only propelled her to grow the business to provide quality jobs for the local economy, but also to share her knowledge and passion with the next generation of leaders and entrepreneurs. She is currently hosting two exchange students for the year, from Spain and Switzerland.
